DOINGS IN THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD.

As we gase backward over the stretch of years that began with the birth of the automobile, one thing stands out clearly among the mighty improvements that have been made. The six-cylinder car is predominant. From a small beginning, it has swept on until in 1914 it has well-nigh carried all before it. It is the prevailing feature of the past automobile year beside which other features pale—but not into insignificance.

The year gone by has seen an unprecedented number of prominent automobile manufacturers proclaim their adherence to "sixes exclusively." Others, who, up to the opening of the 1914 season, have looked at the six-cylinder car askance, have been compelled to take it up in self-defense. If we delve into figures, says the Scientific American, it is revealed that the number of makers who produce six-cylinder cars exclusively has increased from an inconspicuous per cent. of a total of 23 well known makers in 1914. The figures illuminating the decline of the four-cylinder model are even more impressive.

Sixty-four per cent. of 23 makers produced four-cylinder cars exclusively in 1908; in 1916, but 12 per cent. of 42 makers will list only four-cylinder models. The percentage of manufacturers producing both four and six-cylinder models shows equally startling changes. In 1908—only six years ago—one-fourth of the 28 makers produced both; in 1914, no less than 54 per cent. of 42 makers will produce both. It is plain that the "six" is the predominating car and that the promise of 1913 in this respect has been more than fulfilled. It goes without saying that the car of 1914, be it "four" or "six" is a better car—better in a number of exception of the car of 1914, be it "four" or "six" is a better car—better in a number of exception of the car of 1914, be it "four" or "six" is a better car—better in a number of exception of the car of 1914 in the second of the car of 1914 in the second of the car of 1914 in the second of the car of 1915 in the car of 1914 in the second of 1915 in the car of 1914 in the second o

New York, Jan. 16.—The strong up-ward movement in stocks of the last few sessions was checked today. The rise has attained proportions sufficient of realizing sales. Traders believed a reaction was due and there was renewed short selling. Fluctuations were irregular. In the early hours the tendency of the favorite speculative stocks was downward. While the movement was narrow, a few issues, including Union Pacific, Reading and New York Central, sold off a point, In the afternoon the market stiffened and losses were eliminated, but in the last half hour the list dipped downward again. Reading, Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley and Can led the late decline. Although selling for both accounts was on a large scale at times, the spect has been more than fulfilled.

It goes without saying that the car of 1914, be it "four" or "six" is a better car—better in a number of respects. But, as was the case last year, the change is largely in details.

Among the more noteworthy features is the manner in which the new season's models have been electrified. In addition to the electric starter and electric fillumination we now have the In addition to the electric starter and electric filumination we now have the electric gear-shifter and the electrically controlley two-gear drive axle, both brand new features. That the former bids fair to remain with us is indicated by the fact that not one, but several, well-known makers have adopted it, and though there are those who hold to the belief that not more than the mere selection of the gears should be done electrically, leaving the actual shifting to more mechanical means, the opinion is by no means general. The two-gear rear axis would seem to fill a need of the four-cylinder oar; for it permits the engine to be operated more nearly at its maximum efficiency under all conditions, and, in a measure to the conditions. der oar: for it permits the engine to be operated more nearly at its maximum efficiency under all conditions, and, in a measure, insures that smoothness of action which is a characteristic of the "six" at low speeds.

Electric engine starting and lighting apparatus has advenced, too. The apparatus has advenced, too. The apparatus is lighter now than it has been in the past and therefore is more efficient. There seems to be a tendence toward the utilization of september toward the utilization of september toward the utilization of september to the two functions, although opinion is still largely divided as to which is the better method. At any rate, electric engine starting is supposed, the market, a fact which is well-apparatus for the action of several promised by the action o lations with Mexico.

The novelty of the automobile show at the Grand Central palace. New York was the cyclecar exhibit. While few in number, they are sufficient to make a new era in self-propelled vehicles and are attracting much attention from those who are looking for something simpler, lighter and cheaper than the conventional constructions afforded heretofore. While there have been many attempts in the past to introduce the low-priced simple vehicle they have mostly failed because the public would not buy something that looked less like an automobile than the mammoth machine of the neighbor. But today conditions seem to have changed. The standing of a man in his community is not so much affected in the description. have changed. The standing of a man in his community is not so much affected by the size and number of cylinders in his automobile and as a result the buyers are considering other things than mere bigness.

Particularly abroad has this proved true. There the roads are dotted with the little cars which get about with surprising speed in spite of their small motors and economic fuel needs. This is due to their light weight. The light weight in turn is due to leaving out all but the very essentials and reducing these to the simplest and ligatest forms. It is not enough to simply make an automobile in ministure; it must be redesigned and built after a new conception.

REFUSED A LICENSE.

Bride-to-Be Must Get Guardian's Consent.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Edward I. (Gunboat) Smith, the heavyweight pugilist, and Miss Helen Remley of New York were refused a license to marry here today. When the cierk of the marriage license bureau discovered that Miss Remley was only 17 years old he informed the couple a guardian must be appointed for the girl and formal consent given to the marriage.

Smith and Miss Remley said they would take immediate steps to have a guardian appointed and would return towards for the consolation finals from J. D. Plummer of Springfield, 3 up and 2 to play.

Opposed Cincinnati Base Hit.

All the changes proposed by the rules committee of the baseball writers' association of America were adopted by a vote of the members of the organization except the one known as the "Cincinnati base hit." The result of the balloting was announced by Secretary Weart, who said that 25 members voted against the Cincinnati base hit and 26 in favor of it. Opposition to this was particularly strong among the New York and Chicago writers.

The only other proposed change that did not meet with almost unanimous approval was that giving a stolen base and a battery error on the same play. This suggestion, however, was carried three to one.

Another newcomer into the ranks of the Boston Red Sox is Joseph I. Judge, a first baseman, of New York city. This player was recommended by sev-eral of the Red Sox after they had seen him play in an exhibition game in Long Island City, N. Y., after the close of the 1913 American league sea-

Dr P. S. Page, physical director at Andover, announced yesterday that Andover will not be represented in any of the indoor track and field games to be held this winter. It was re-ported some time ago that Andover would return to the indoor champion-ship meeting conducted by the B. A.

Harry Hillman has some task to build up a great track team in Dart-mouth this year. Fourteen D men were lost by graduation last June, and that Rector is the only developed star the class of 1918 has brought to this year's team. Rector is an all around man of great utility. He is a splendid hurdler, vaulter and jumper.

Gilhooley has signed with the New York Highlanders.

Jack Miller, one of the live wires of the Players' fraternity, has signed of the Players fraternity, has signed with the St. Louis Nationals. Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion, and Harry Tracey of Philadelphia have signed to box in Cleveland on January 19. The Kilbane-Frankie Fleming bout in New York January 19 has been declared off.

Roy Bentley, the pitcher, who was bought by the Providence club from the Monmouth club for $1,200 and reported with a sore arm, did not return to that club, as reported. The Provi-dence management didn't like the idea of buying a twirler sight unseen, and put it up to the national commission for a decision. The Grays lost out on the money-back proposition in a recent official bulletin issued from the Cincinnati office.

As the outcome of several weeks' negotiations with the 1914 Yale foot-ball management, Graduate manager Irving J. Heath of Boston college, speaking for the athletic advisory committee, announces that Boston college is practically sure of a place on the Yale football schedule next fall. Acording to the announcement besides Yale, Boston college also will have Tufts, Colgate, Georgetown, Bowdoin and Bates as opponents on the gridfron next fall. None of these teams was ever on the B. C. list.

FARMER BEARDSLEY READY TO SURRENDER. Brother Sent for to Take Charge of His Children.

Mayville, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Edward Beardsley sent out word from his bar-ricaded farmhouse at Summerdale this afternoon that he was ready to discuss terms of surrender with the sheriff, provided that his brother, James provided that his brother, James Beardsley, was brought here from Titusville to look after the children. Sheriff Anderson believed that Beardsley's offer was the first sincere one he had made since he barricaded the farmhouse after the shooting of Poormaster Putnam on Tuesday afternoon, and he at once sent a deputy to Titusville to ask the brother to come here. In the meantime he instructed the demities on grand not to fire un-
